Subject: Please don't give microsoft any more foothold in becoming a monopoly

To Whom it May Concern:

Microsoft proposal to provide schools with equipment and software seems to be a generous offer from one side.. But the other side shows most of the donation costs in software from their company.. This would truly give them a further foothold in becoming a monopoly.. By having Red Hat donate the software so Microsoft can quadruple the amount of computers given to schools is the best route for everyone.. The further we can promote other operating systems the better for everyone.. Competition provides better products and better prices..

Thanks,
